Learning about Police

Simon and Grace arrived at the police station Monday morning. They weren't here because they were in trouble, but because they were working on a school project today. Simon and Grace were assigned to write a report about the police. Simon wants to be a police officer when he gets older, so he is excited. Grace thinks being a police officer is dangerous. She wants to be a doctor. Simon and Grace met officer Green at the door. Officer Green will show them around the police station.

Learning about Police

Officer Green brought the children to meet officer Rick and Buddy. Buddy is a police dog that helps catch dangerous criminals. They patrol, or keep watch over, the streets and neighborhoods to make sure they are safe. Officer Rick and Buddy patrol in a car, but some officers patrol on foot, on horseback, on motorcycles, or on bicycles.

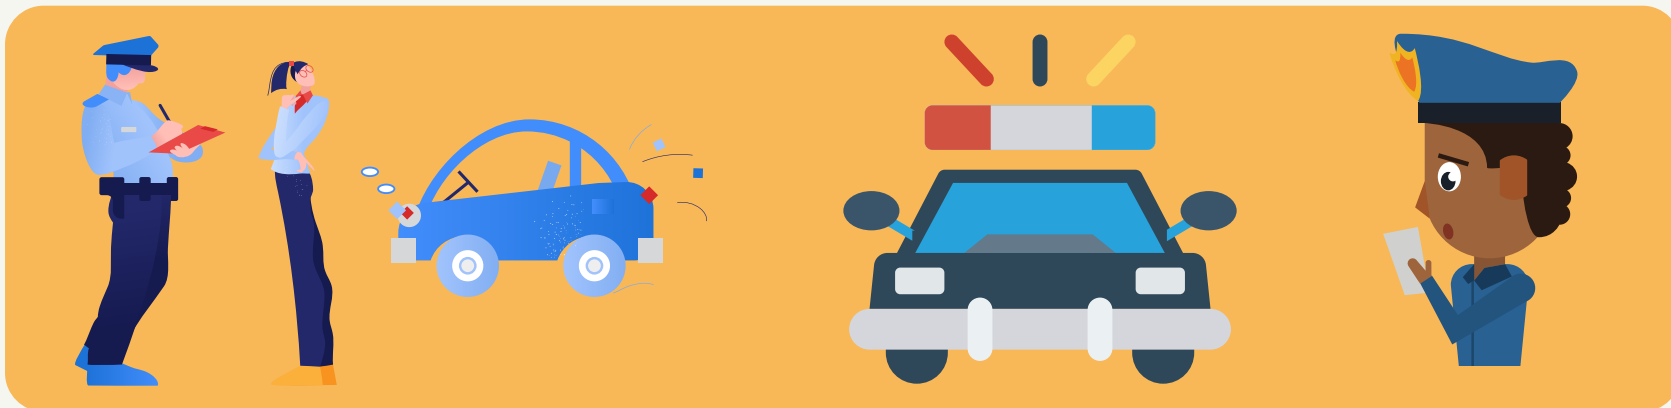

Learning about Police

Next, Simon and Grace met detective Dan. Dan explained that detectives try to find out who did the crimes. They will talk to a lot of people and ask them questions. They will look for clues where the crime happened to see if the criminals left anything there that will help the detective know who did it. When they find the person who did the crime, they will arrest them and bring them to jail.

Learning about Police

Lastly, officer Green brought the children to meet trooper Jones. His job is to watch the traffic on the streets and highways to make sure people are driving safely. If he sees someone that isn't following the traffic laws, he will turn on the flashing lights and have them pull over to the side of the road. Trooper Jones will then give the driver a ticket and make that person pay a fine.
