The Easter Egg Hunt Tradition

A. Read the paragraph about an Easter activity.

On Easter Sunday, many families take part in an egg hunting activity, which has both fun and religious meaning. This activity is often done after church, where people celebrate the resurrection of Jesus. During the egg hunt, children look for colorful eggs hidden in gardens or parks. These eggs are not just for fun; they also represent new life and hope. The egg is a well-known symbol of Easter in many cultures.

This tradition has developed over a long period of time. In the past, eggs were simple and real, but today they are often made of chocolate or plastic and filled with small gifts. The way people celebrate Easter has evolved in different countries, but egg hunting remains one of the most popular activities. It brings families together and helps children learn about the meaning of Easter in an enjoyable way.
